Snow, ice cover Hancock County

BY DENA BISNETTE

Freezing rain and snow in Hancock County Friday afternoon forced special precautions and caused minor accidents involving cars slipping off roads.

None of the roads or bridges in Hancock County had to be closed, but county road and bridge maintenance crews worked until after midnight to spread sand on iced-over bridges, County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson said.

The same crews worked until about noon Saturday checking to see what bridges and roads still had ice on them.

Board of Supervisors President and Beat Two Supervisor Ronald Cuevas, who worked with Johnson until after 10 p.m. Friday, said the crews "basically sanded every bridge in the county including some on US-90 and Highway 603," which he added normally fall under the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department.

Work was started on the north end of the county where snowfall was heaviest and ended down in Pearl-ington "well after midnight," Johnson explained.

He said the last two bridges, those over Cowand Bayou and White's Bayou on old Highway 90, were so long that motor graders were used to spread the sand.

The county has 15 to 20 bridges that have enough traffic to warrant being sanded, Cuevas added.

Johnson said that number includes about 80 percent of the total number of bridges in the county.

In addition, warning signs and barricades were put out in some areas.

At about 2 p.m. Friday, Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin had stated that no roads were being closed, but Johnson had placed a crew on standby for the weekend in case the bridges became icy.

Johnson had also stated that the road equipment out at various worksites had been brought back to the central maintenance barn in Kiln early to keep the slow-moving vehicles off the road in slippery, snowy weather.

Trucks full of sand were loaded and ready to go.

By 2:30 p.m., Johnson said he was watching "great big snowflakes" fall outside his office window.

Cuevas said all available county maintenance crews, about 15 to 20 men, had to be called back "right at quitting time."

"Everybody worked hard to get it done. This was after a full day's work because these men were ready to go home when the ice started getting bad," he said.

He referred to it as "exceptional work."

Cuevas added the emergency effort included about 150 manhours of work and Johnson said about 13 loads of sand, which average six to eight yards, had been used.

"This cost us some money," Cuevas said Saturday. "We don't know yet how much."

In addition, some of the county's portable warning signs will have to be replaced because they were knocked down or thrown off bridges, Johnson added.

The maintenance superintendent said the sand should keep bridges from icing over again for several days unless it rains.

Crews checking the bridges Saturday morning reported ice remaining only on a few in the most northern sections of Hancock County.

"We did it for the public safety and the sheriff's department was in close communication with us the whole time and was a big help with traffic control," Johnson said.

He said he had seen some accidents while out in the field Friday night, most of which were on the highways and involved cars slipping off the road.

According to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, the efforts of the road crews were apparently effective.

No major injuries were reported in the half-dozen or so incidents reported in his department's jurisdiction, he said.

"We thought we would actually have more problems than we did,"

Settlement limits trains to 45 mph through Waveland

BY DENA BISNETTE

Trains will pass through Waveland at 45 m.p.h. for the next year, unless 45 days' notice is given.

According to Lucien M. Gex, attorney for the Waveland Board of Aldermen, the city has agreed to a settlement with Chesapeake-Seaboard Rail Transportation, also known as CSX, that will allow trains a 45 m.p.h. limit rather than the 35 m.p.h. required by a local ordinance.

Waveland was one of the defendants in a federal lawsuit filed May 8 by CSX, which according to the suit operates more than 70 freight trains per week on tracks between New Orleans, La., and Mobile, Ala.

The settlement will permit

Waveland to avoid legal expenses of a suit that Gex feels would not be in the best interests of the city to pursue with the 45 m.p.h. option available.

Prior to the filing, Waveland had been asked by CSX attorney Raymond Brown to repeal a local ordinance limiting the trains to 35 m.p.h. inside the city's corporate limits.

The suit had been initiated after Jackson County set a five m.p.h. limit on 10 miles of track outside Pascagoula.

The lawsuit would have declared Waveland's ordinance, the only one existing in Hancock County, invalid, Gex said.

Bay St. Louis and Hancock County have no local ordinances, but had entered into an interlocal agreement fighting the suit, which asked for limits of 50 to 60 m.p.h. depending on the type of freight the individual trains are hauling.

All three entities and other Gulf Coast municipalities had contributed money to the fight, with each paying a share based on population.

There is still a question of whether or not local entities, the state or the federal regulatory agencies control train speed limits.

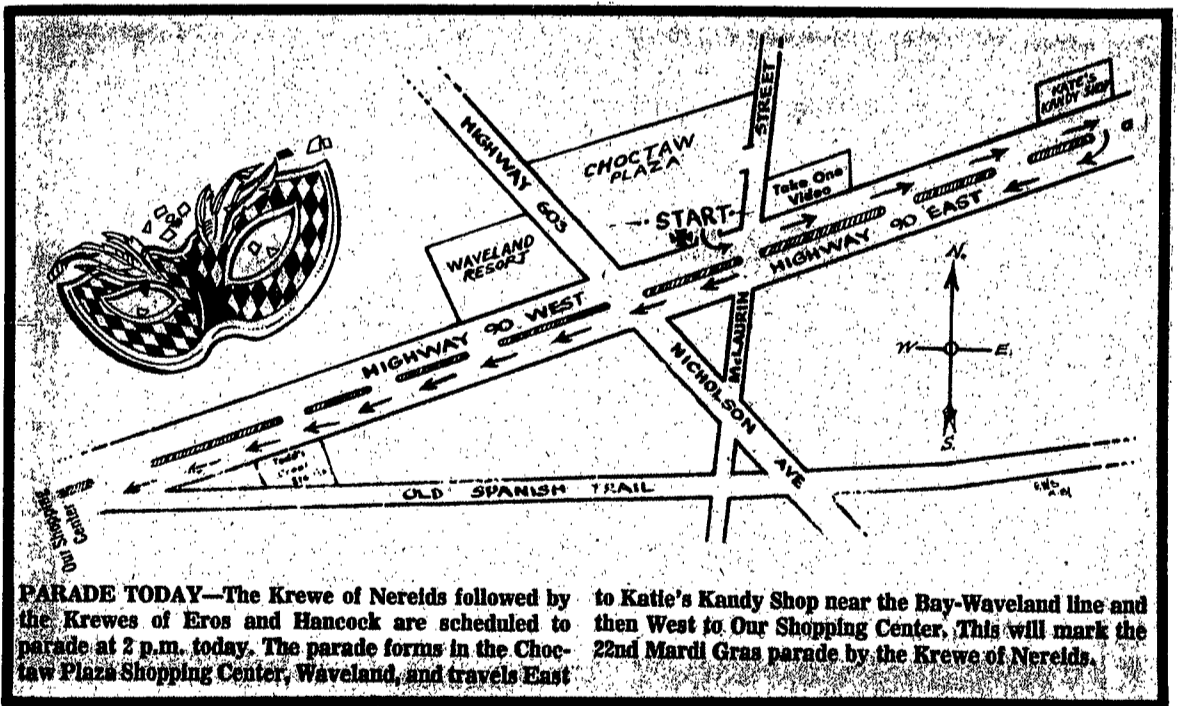

While Gex said he is certain that the local laws are superseded by higher regulations, he said there is a possibility that the matter of regulating train speeds can be pursued through legislation.

He said he does not feel there is any way to supersede federal law through the state legislature, but the railroad speed limits may fall under the exceptions in those statutes.

JUST ADD SYRUP—A sign pointing to a snowball stand on Highway 603 in Kiln stands in a field full of raw material for the product on Saturday morning. Much of Hancock County received snow Friday night, with the deepest snowfalls reported in the northern section of the county. Additional sheriff's department patrols worked Friday night along with county maintenance crews sanding bridges and Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said no serious accidents were reported. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

PARADE TODAY—The Krewe of Eros followed by the Krewe of Hancock are scheduled to parade at 2 p.m. today. The parade forms in the Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center, Waveland, and travels East to Katie's Kandy Shop near the Bay-Waveland line and then West to Our Shopping Center. This will mark the 22nd Mardi Gras parade by the Krewe of Eros.

Humane Society seeking donations for 'Artist for Animals' show

Local artists are being asked to donate one of their works to the Hancock County Humane Society's second annual Artist for Animals Show.

Donations may be left at Jolly Rogers Printing, Hancock Square, E. St. Louis, or call Thyla Rogers at 452-3593 or 452-5895, or Joyce Ohman at 467-0556 to have donations picked up.

Items may be any size, framed or unframed, and acceptable media include oils, watercolors, acrylics, pastels, charcoals or pen-and-ink.

A card with biographical notes on the artist, title of the work, inspiration for the work or other information available to a potential purchaser may be included.

In addition, artists should include a price estimate.

A preview party will be Feb. 25 from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. Admission will be free and a cash bar will be available.

"We like to have as many artists as possible attend because the public enjoys hearing about the work directly from the creator and it adds so much to the flavor of the evening," Ohman said.

Works not sold that evening will be displayed at the Hancock County-Bay St. Louis Library from Feb. 28 until March 2.

"Our first show last year was the most successful fund raiser the Humane Society has ever held. It enabled us to add a storage building to hold donated food and litter and to help build an addition to the shelter," Ohman added.

FIRE INVESTIGATION—Joe Bourgeois, left, a Lieutenant with Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department and a firefighter for BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department, watches as Arson Investigator Richard Fayard shows him where flames started in a Wednesday blaze that damaged a home on Lakeshore Road. The owner of the house, Rufus Lulich, stated that the home had been rented to Annie Wainwright, who was not home when the fire occurred. Flames destroyed a bedroom and mattress but other than smoke damage, the fire was confined to the bedroom in which it started, Fayard said. He said a neighbor boy riding by spotted the flames just as they exploded out the bedroom window, adding that the house would have been destroyed had the fire been discovered any later. BaySide Park was assisted at the scene by Waveland Fire Department and Hancock County Sheriff's Department. Fayard is still investigating the cause of the blaze. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Now's the time to plant trees

By Linda McMahon
District Conservationist

The best time of the year to plant any type of pine or hardwood is during the winter months of January and February.

So now is the time to plant that shade tree, landscape the yard, or plant a stand for the future. Planting trees not only beautifies an area, but also conserves soil and moisture, protects watersheds, and can also produce a wood crop.

Both pine and hardwoods should be planted within their native range on preferred sites. Seedlings should be planted as soon as possible once leaving the nursery. If planting is delayed, keep seedlings in a cool place (protected from freezing), keep moist and away from direct sunlight.

Bundled or bagged seedlings kept under these conditions may be stored for up to three weeks without harming the seedlings. While planting, keep seedlings moist in wet moss, burlap or slurry—a mixture of soil and water.

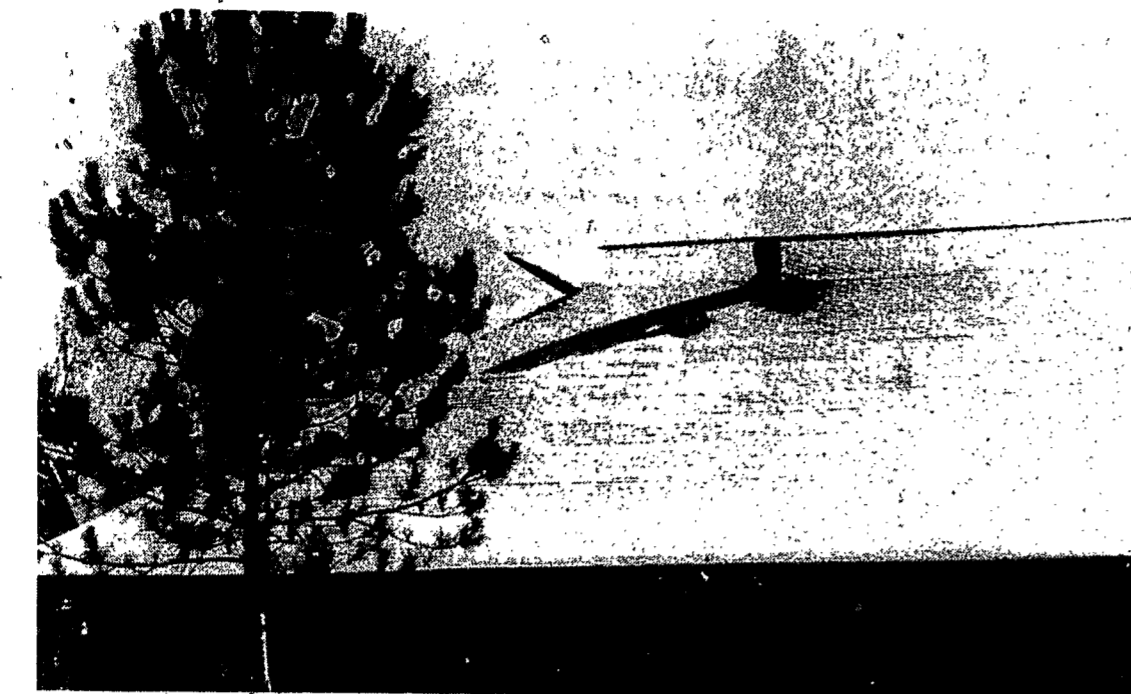

Site preparation will vary according to the species to be planted, ground cover, soil type and degree of erosion. On a large scale, site preparation may include disking, grubbing, scalping, prescribed burning, or a combination of these. On a smaller scale site preparation may be as simple as clearing a small area to dig a hole for a single tree.

Plant seedlings so that roots are straight down, not twisted, balled, L-shaped, or U-shaped. The hole should be large enough to accommodate the normal root position. Close the hole by firmly packing soil around the roots, being sure to have no air pockets.

Fertilizing when planting seedlings is not recommended; allow the tree to become accustomed to the new site before fertilizing.

For more information on tree planting contact the Soil Conservation Service in Kiln or the Mississippi Forestry Commission in Bay St. Louis. In observance of Mississippi's 14th annual 'Tree Planting Week' both agencies will be distributing free hardwood seedlings, 8 a.m. to noon, Feb. 11 and 12. Limit - three seedlings per family.

Peterson explained.

Extra patrols by both the sheriff's department and the Mississippi Highway Patrol worked Friday night, with most of the county units in northern Hancock County and in Pearlinton, where Cuevas reported multiple power failures.

"We tried to get people to be aware of driving conditions," the sheriff said. Despite efforts to encourage people to remain in their homes during the storm, some were still out on the road.

"People were mostly excited about the snow and they wanted to get out and look around," Peterson explained.

Even some law enforcement officers were uncomfortable being on the road Friday, Deputy Tommy Powell said. He explained that at one point he was up at NASA and could not see the road because "snow was coming down so hard."

The weather also gave some children a little extra time out of school.

Assistant Hancock County Superintendent of Education Eddie Danzey said students were released early due to road conditions.

Roger Oge, Superintendent of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District, said the students were not released early there because weather conditions were not yet considered hazardous to bus travel.

Quotables by CUEVAS

Friday was one of those days we would like to forget about as it was a day of rain, sleet and snow for Hancock Countians.

Many of us can remember December 31, 1963, when Bay St. Louis registered a record 12-inch snow fall.

It was the day Jane and I moved into our home. Of course there were many Hancock County residents, especially the youngsters, who were thrilled with seeing their first snow on Friday.

I am a warm weather person myself, as I have seen enough snow, especially when I was in the U.S. Army and got into some in New York in early January.

It was odd to wake up on Saturday morning and see everything white with the snow.

I saw some puzzled robins in the field behind my house trying to figure how far south they would have to go to get away from snow and ice.

There were several snowmen about the area on Saturday morning; it seems some youngsters and others not too young had a good time playing in the snow on Friday night.

One thing about the weather, we can talk about it, and really the only way to do something about it is move to another location, and that doesn't help sometimes.

Today is the big Mardi Gras Day for the Krewe of Nereids and we sure hope the weather is warmer for the parade.

We suggest everyone going to the parade wear a lot of clothing and take a couple of extra coats because it looks like it will still be cold for parade time.

We hope all of the people on the floats will also dress for the occasion.

Don't forget the parade begins at 2 p.m. at the Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center and travels East to Katie's Kandy Shop and then West to Our Shopping Center.

We hope to see you at the parade.

On Wednesday, the American Red Cross, in corporation with the Hancock County Blood Bank, will hold a Blood Drawing at the Bay St. Louis American Legion Home on Green Meadow Road.

The Blood Drawing will be from 2 to 8 p.m. and a goal of 100 units has been set.

As you know, in recent months there has been a short supply of blood along the coastal area just as it is nationwide.

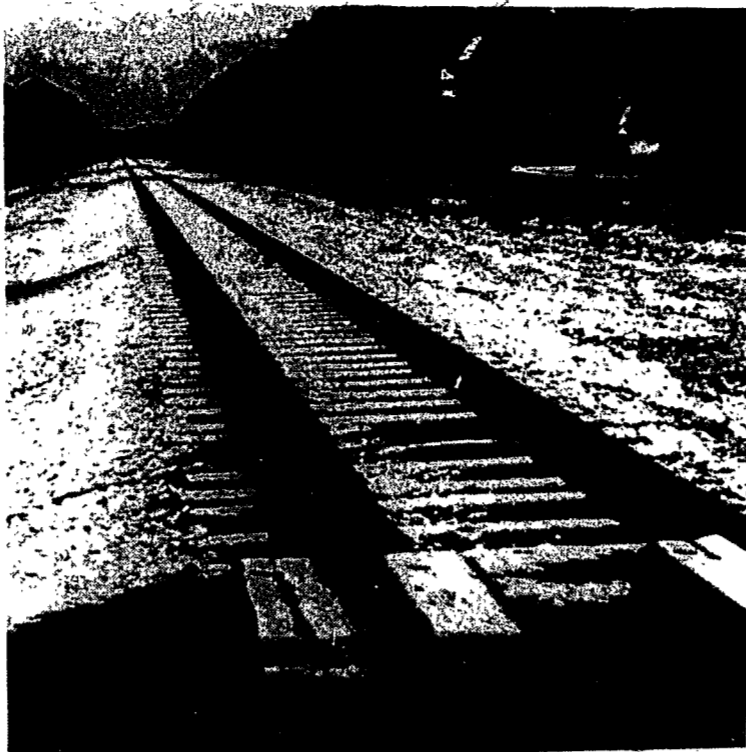

One of the reasons John Rutherford, Hancock County Blood Bank chairman, would like to see the next drawing be a big success is because one resident in recent weeks has used over 50 units of blood.

If you are able to donate a unit of blood, this person's family as well as a lot of other folks will be very grateful.

We hope to see you at the Blood Drawing.

COVERED WITH SNOW—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Strong Jr. of Bay St. Louis was among the many covered by snow as residents awoke on Saturday morning. Snow of varying depths fell in Hancock County on Friday afternoon and night.

SNOW-COVERED RAILROAD TRACKS—Snow covered the railroad tracks at the Clermont Harbor crossing on Saturday morning. Hancock County crews kept busy past midnight Friday sanding bridges on highways and roads to keep them open. Bill Johnson, Hancock County Maintenance Superintendent, reported his crews were again out Saturday morning checking all of the county's roads for possible hazards from the rain, sleet and snow. ## Patrol endorses Child Passenger Safety Week

JACKSON—The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol has joined other law enforcement agencies in states across the nation in supporting the annual "National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week," set for Feb. 7-13.

"Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week," which immediately precedes Valentine's Day, is designed to encourage parents to "Buckle-Up Your Valentine" and "Be a Valentine for Life: Buckle-Up Your Family" by correctly securing their children in car safety seats and buckling themselves into their safety belts.

On a national basis the number one cause of death and disabling injury among children is the trauma they suffer as a result of motor vehicle crashes. Nearly 1,000 children under the age of six are killed annually in motor vehicle crashes.

Only 48 percent of children in the United States are currently being correctly restrained in car safety seats, according to the National Passenger Safety Association.

To "correctly" use child safety seats parents should follow the manufacturer's instructions exactly.

Three major tips to check for correct use are:

- anchor the safety seat to the car,
- anchor the child to the safety seat, and
- face an infant seat backwards

when transporting a child that weighs 20 pounds or less (or cannot yet sit unsupported). All belts and straps should be pulled snug.

Mississippi's Child passenger Restraint Devices law requires the parent or guardian to restrain children up to their second birthday in a child safety seat.

Lt. Col Billie T. Hughes, assistant chief of the Highway Patrol, recommends that parents not only obey the law but use a safety seat for their children's protection.

"Records in the Statistical Branch of the Highway Patrol show 20 children under the age of 10 were killed in auto accidents in Mississippi during 1987," Hughes said.

"When an automobile crash takes place child safety seats are over 70 percent effective in preventing death and 67 percent effective in reducing the need for hospitalization when installed and used properly. Parents can reduce their children's chances of injury and death by using a safety seat during every trip," he said.

Parents with questions regarding the proper installation and use of child safety seats should consult the manufacturer's instructions or telephone the National Passenger Safety Association at (202) 429-0515, or National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's Auto Safety Hotline, 1-800-424-9393.

Governor's Weekly Report

BY GOV. RAY MABUS

It is a privilege and a pleasure to be able to write to you each week about our state. I hope to outline my hopes and goals for Mississippi, and how I believe we can achieve them.

I have long said that government in Mississippi just doesn't work well enough. Now, as governor, I want this to be the "Year of Making Government Work Better."

I think a good place to begin is with the state budget.

In the past, we have simply not set priorities for spending your tax dollars. Instead of taking what money we have and putting it where it will do the most good, we have spread it thin among hundreds of programs.

As a result, we've ended up with a lot of mediocre programs and not enough excellent ones.

That's not a good way to operate and we need to change it.

I want to put $198 million—much of the new money we will have next year—into one area: Education. That money will allow us to raise teacher salaries in Mississippi from the lowest in the nation to about 34th, and from the bottom of the 12-state southeastern region to sixth.

This will send a clear message to the rest of the country that Mississippi is serious about educating our children.

Why is this important? First, well educated children ultimately become better paid adults when they enter the workforce. Moreover, the quality of a state's public education system is among the most important factors businesses consider before coming to a state.

The importance of education to business investment was hammered home in a recent survey of 130 of America's largest companies, 64 percent said education was the most important factor they consider when locating in a state.

To put it simply, investment in education means more and better paying jobs for our people.

My budget calls for fully funding education without a tax increase. I firmly believe that this can be done.

Mississippi's budget and economic experts agree that state government will have much more growth in revenue next year than originally expected. I have suggested that much of that money go into education.

Also, I have recommended that we use some unspent, surplus funds that have built up over the years. That money can be used now for education and other vital programs.

Finally, I have proposed that a modest amount of two-lane road maintenance and construction be funded next year by bonds. Not one mile of road work would be delayed or scrapped, but my budget would free up more than $30 million for immediate needs such as a teacher pay increase.

There are those who would proceed more slowly with investment in education. But I say now is the time to move ahead in a bold fashion.

It was once said, "No one can make you feel inferior without your consent."

Well, I refuse to accept any notion of an inferior educational system in Mississippi. We have the capacity, financially and in brainpower, to make education in Mississippi first rate, bar none. I think my proposed budget is an essential step in that direction.

I have pledged to work closely with the legislature. I also would like your help in passing this budget. If this is to be the "Year of Making Government Work Better," you, the voters, must contact my office and legislators to make your views known.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us

Serious omissions found in proposed state constitution

Dear Editor:

We have just today been able to start to compare the proposed new Mississippi Constitution by the Governor's Study Commission with the 1890 Mississippi Constitution, and we find there is no mention of God.

In the Preamble of our 1890 Constitution it reads: "We, the people of Mississippi in convention assembled, grateful to Almighty God, and invoking His blessing on our work, do ordain and establish this Constitution."

In the Mississippi proposed Constitution Preamble there is no reference to God, nor to a request for His blessings on the undertaking, nor to gratitude to Him for past blessings (although we have food while millions starve, and we are still free, while millions are enslaved).

When our National Constitution was written, delegates were in deadlock until Ben Franklin reminded them a nation could not rise without God's blessings.

Prayers were initiated, and agreements quickly followed, and our National Constitution was born.

Yet in the proposed new Mississippi Constitution, the legislators' oath even omits the words "so help me God."

As we know, we are specifically warned that "we build on God's name or we build on sand."

These serious and deadly omissions were found just in our beginning examination of the proposed Mississippi Constitution.

Also, we find in the proposed Mississippi Constitution the inclusion of the issue of the Equal Rights Amendment, which failed to be adopted by the United States after a hard battle.

Utility bills payable in increments of one month whether used or not

Feb. 4, 1988

Dear Editor,

Dec. 18, 1987, I told the Utilities Department at City Hall in Bay St. Louis to turn off my utilities. Well, that they did, and to my surprise on Jan. 14, 1988 I received a bill for a full month's service.

I went to City Hall to see if someone could clear this up for me. Well, the utilities department did nothing for me. As other people have said the same, I went upstairs to the Mayor's Office.

He told me that no matter what day of the service month one has everything turned off, one still has to pay a whole month's usage, used or not!

Thanks for not telling me when I gave you a full deposit (which I needed for other things).

Boy, is someone making money! So, I had all utilities turned off on the 18th. Let's say two more tenants moved in and out afterwards within that one month. Right there someone has robbed three people of about $137.40.

I understand having to pay somebody by the hour to turn meters off and on (when they should read the meter at the same time).

Haven't they ever heard of prorating? Or are they too cheap to be fair.

Well, Jan. 20 of this year was when the Mayor said, and I quote: "Let me see what I can do and I'll get in touch with you by Friday at the latest." Guess what? Nothing.

I have gone to City Hall twice since then and both times have left a message.

Thank you for your time since City Hall doesn't.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—The road to writing a new constitution in Mississippi is still lined with pitfalls, even though one historic barrier was cleared last week in the House of Representatives.

Twice in the past half century or so—in 1934 and again in 1957—the Mississippi House has sounded the deathknell of legislative efforts to put machinery in motion to replace the 1890 state constitution.

Reluctantly the other night, after seven exhausting hours of debate, the House finally yielded to allow the people to decide if they want to hold a constitutional convention.

But the House gave its approval only after exacting a toll on the bill.

In addition to the 122 delegates who would be elected as convention delegates from the presently constituted house districts, the bill as brought before the House had provided for 20 delegates to be appointed by the governor, four each from the Congressional districts.

This was a key provision to help balance the makeup of the convention from the standpoint of race or sex. It would also allow for giving delegate slots to some leading legal scholars in the state who would not offer themselves if they had to undergo a political race for delegate.

The idea of the appointive delegates had been taken from the plan Louisiana used successfully in 1974 in writing a new constitution which was approved every step of the way by the U.S. Justice Department under the 1965 Voting Rights Act. Not only is clearance by the Justice Department necessary for the document drafted by a convention, but Justice also must clear the mechanism of the convention.

Over objections from the sponsors of the constitutional convention measure, protests from black members and most women lawmakers, the House eliminated the 20 gubernatorially appointed delegates by a 63-53 vote.

The asserted reason was that every delegate should have to take his chance of being elected "just like the rest of us." One foe of the appointive delegates opined that he didn't like the influence that out-of-state investment bankers seemed to have with Gov. Ray Mabus.

Black lawmakers interpreted the vote to knock out the 20 appointed delegates as latent racism once again rearing its head.

But some believed it was just as much a manifestation of the old populist belief which has been evident in the state since the turn of the century against giving appointive power to any one person, particularly the governor.

State Rep. Ed Perry of Oxford, who floor-managed the constitutional convention measure as chairman of the Constitution Committee, said afterward he felt "there is no question that taking out the appointive delegates weakens the case of the state with the Justice Department."

It also is likely to add to the apprehensions blacks already have toward supporting the constitutional convention in the proposed Nov. 8 referendum.

Governor Mabus strongly favors having appointive delegates in the constitutional convention and sources in his office said he will go to bat to have the 20 appointees restored to the bill in the Senate.

While legislative backers believe that the measure giving the people the first opportunity in the history of the state to vote on whether or not to hold a constitutional convention will clear the legislature, they are doubtful it will win approval at the polls the first time around.

"Even if it falls on its face the first time, there will be discussions from the country stores to the coffee shops and people will for the first time understand what is and what is not part of our basic law," Perry said.

The stumpy Lafayette County legislative veteran, one of the few of the older House members to back a constitutional convention, said much of the opposition stems from a basic fear of change.

That, he said, reminded him of what a fellow Lafayette Countian named William Faulkner once wrote: "A man is more afraid of the trouble he might have than he is the trouble he's already got."

For Valentine's Day

Choose gift with receiver in mind

By Eva Ann Dorris
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Valentine's Day is still the ideal opportunity to remember cherished friends and loved ones, but it is also big business for sellers of traditional flowers, candies and cards.

Consumers who are struck by Cupid's arrow this Valentine's Day will find there are many ways to express their emotions. The secret to shopping for the day is to consider the receiver when making selections.

A stroll down the candy aisle of any drug or variety store will reveal that candy is still a popular item for giving to the young and old.

Prices for the "melt in your mouth" greetings range from 29-cent chocolate hearts to $20 and higher imported chocolates.

Such candies are traditional favorites, but it should be remembered that they are also a concentrated source of calories, something that may not be at the top of a sweetheart's list.

"The type of candy found in most boxed Valentine assortments has between 60 and 120 calories per piece," said Melissa Mixon, a human nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Candy may be the most obvious choice for the giver, but it may not be the most popular choice for the receiver, especially someone trying to watch their calorie intake," Mixon said.

She suggests giving a fruit basket decorated for the occasion, and perhaps including some of the popular tropical fruits such as kiwis, papayas and mangoes.

If candy is marked off the gift list, flowers may be the perfect alternative. The vibrant colors of roses and carnations won't hurt the waistline, but there might be damage to the pocketbook.

According to Ruth Stewart, a retail florist in north Mississippi, roses are as popular as ever. She said orders for the traditional favorite were being placed as early as the third week in January.

"Long stemmed, red roses are still popular," she said. "This year consumers, ordering from retail florists, can expect to spend $40 to $45 a dozen for them."

Stewart said balloons are now a very popular item as well as bud vases with one to two roses, or one to two carnations.

"Cut flower arrangements made with carnations are always popular, too," she said. "A nice arrangement of this kind will cost between $15 and $20."

If roses are chosen for the perfect gift, thought should be given to the color of the Valentine favorite. Red roses mean love, but they also stand for respect and courage. Gifts of white roses say "you are heavenly." They also convey reverence, humility, innocence, purity, secrecy and silence.

Yellow roses stand for joy and gladness. Pink roses mean "you are lovely." Deep pink says thank you, and light pink conveys admiration. Coral or orange roses stand for enthusiasm or desire.

The gift of fresh-cut roses smell wonderful, and they look beautiful, but many consumers complain they don't last long enough, said Dr. Milo Burnham, an Extension Service horticulturist.

"The problem is roses are usually not taken care of properly," he said. "Properly cared for roses can last anywhere from four to seven days."

Burnham's tips for purchasing roses include selecting roses from a professional florist or other busy retail outlet.

Roses are a precious and perishable commodity and the seller with the highest turnover will generally have the freshest product.

You haven't found the best deal on a new or used car until you stop here!

Military Mention

FIREMAN MILLER

Navy Fireman Recruit John E. Miller, son of Norbert C. and Sandra A. Aias of Route 2, Bay St. Louis, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During Miller's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Miller's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

He joined the Navy in November 1987.

Four Bay police officers complete training courses

BY DENA BISNETTE

Four Bay St. Louis Police Department officers have completed additional training.

Three of the officers attended two days of advanced firearms training classes at Jackson Police Training Academy, while the fourth officer attended a six-day seminar on pressure point control tactics at USM-Gulf Park in Long Beach, Bay Police Investigator Chuck James said.

Officer Richard Hannah completed the seminar, which was provided by Southern Tactical Supply and sponsored by the Mississippi Law Enforcement Academy at Gulf Park.

The training he received included use of pressure points of the body, gun retention and speed cuffing, James said.

The three officers attended the firearms course included David Sellier, Tom Bureson and Shane Corr.

James said the training was the first course of its type offered by the Jackson Police Academy, with three more classes to be offered in 1988.

The course included use of handguns and shotguns in day and night firing situations, including felony stops, routine traffic stops, day and night building searches and family disturbance calls.

The training also included a physical stress course, combat shooting course and 50-round NRA qualification shooting.

Marriage Encounter deadline nears

BILOXI—The deadline for registration for the February Marriage Encounter weekend will be Sunday, Feb. 14.

The weekend is set for 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 19 through 6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 21 at the Biloxi Howard Johnson Hotel, according to Dan and Pam Griffon, coordinators.

The weekend will be sponsored by the Gulf-Lake Marriage Encounter Community, comprising St. Tammany, Tangipahoa, and Washington parishes in Louisiana and the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Marriage Encounter is for any married couple who desires a richer and fuller life together. The weekend can make a good marriage a great marriage according to Dan and Pam Griffon.

They describe the weekend as a personal experience between husband and wife that revitalizes a marriage by teaching a new communication technique. This technique enables a couple to privately explore important areas of their relationship in a spirit of love and understanding. Couples interested in finding out more about the Marriage Encounter weekend may contact Joe and Debbie Nastasi at 896-1952 (Gulfport).

Farmers caught in commercial drivers license provision

Unless the law is changed, farmer operators who drive vehicles weighing over 10,000 pounds soon will be required to apply for a commercial drivers license.

A little noticed section in the Anti-Drug Abuse Act which became law in 1986 requires the Department of Transportation to establish minimum standards for state testing and licensing of commercial motor vehicle operators.

"The law was intended to deal with license violations among long-haul drivers who have records of drug and alcohol abuse," said Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation President Hugh Arant.

"But because of the truck weight classifications, farm operators are also included in the licensing requirements. We believe the inclusion was not intended, and we are petitioning the Federal Highway Administration to provide an exemption for agriculture."

"Farm operators use their vehicles to transport fuel, fertilizer, livestock and other agricultural products. The trips are generally short and most often do not involve travel on interstate highways. Farm operators do not drive transcontinental which is the intent of this legislation," Arant added.

Arant has asked farm operators to write to the Federal Highway Administration in Washington urging an exemption. The deadline for comments is Feb. 9.

State may have good peach crop

Some of Mississippi's finest quality peaches will be ready to eat this summer if state growers are blessed with good weather in the spring.

"We should have better peaches than we've ever had," said Dr. Freddie Rasberry, horticulturist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "People should be able to buy a quality peach at a reasonable price."

Rasberry said many of the orchards may yield more peaches than ever before because the trees have not been taxed by overproduction problems. Freezes in 1987 and 1988 kept many peach trees in the state from bearing fruit.

Mississippi has about 2,000 acres of peach orchards. The peaches grown on those acres are sold at roadside stands for an average price of 50 cents a pound. Peaches sold in Mississippi grocery stores are imported from major peach-growing states, such as Georgia and South Carolina, and sell for about 99 cents a pound.

"We can grow as good a peach in Mississippi as can any state of the union, and better than most," Rasberry said. "Despite losing the crop the past three years or so, our growers feel peaches are a good crop for them, and they are."

"Weather data over the last 56 years shows that there's a good chance we'll get 8 out of 10 peach crops," he said. According to Rasberry growers can make money off their peach crop if they grow what they can sell and not a pound over.

"Before we increase our acreage in Mississippi, we have to find a commercial market to sell the increased amount of peaches we would grow," Rasberry said.

In other agricultural news, livestock producers are getting ready for calving season by feeding their animals and repairing housing facilities.

Farmers in some counties are idle because of heavy rain or tornado damage while others are keeping an eye on cold weather.

"Our poultry producers are staying close as weather is fluctuating from warm to cold," said Warren Dievert, Copiah County agent.

Lewis, post adjutant and District I senior vice commander; Herbert Walker; Truman Schultz, youth activities chairman; and Arthur Weber, District I chaplain.

Attending from the auxiliary were Lucille Boudreaux, auxiliary president and VFW PAC chairman, Department of Mississippi; Joyce Bermond, junior vice president; Jean Lewis, auxiliary treasurer and page to Lee Melton, Department of Mississippi senior vice president; Birdie Walker, District I senior vice president; Evelyn Sick; Marjorie Schultz, historian and youth activities chairman Peggy Kellogg; Mamie Carver, chaplain.

Joyce Bermond, Mamie Carver, Peggy Kellogg, Evelyn Sick, and special guests Lonnie Nealse and Peter Casano hosted a reception for Lucille Boudreaux who is a candidate for department guard.

The national representative, Marion Watson, spoke on how important all the auxiliary national programs are.

She also explained that if the auxiliary could not afford to raise the membership dues to pay the cancer insurance, that auxiliaries should have special fund raisers to pay the insurance on all the auxiliaries' members.

The cost of the insurance varies according to the type of policy each member would like to have but all auxiliary members must agree on the type of policy they wish to take out and all the auxiliary members from that unit must take out the policy to obtain one.

Florence Bennett, department president, has as her special project the Mississippi Firefighters Burns Center which has Mildred Duncan of Yazoo City as chairman.

The burn center always needs funds. Donations are accepted. Ursula Favre is the auxiliary chairman.

The next meeting of the Theodore S. Price Ladies Auxiliary will be Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 7:30 p.m. All members are asked to attend.

Members who have not paid dues are asked to do so.

Lucille Boudreaux and Audrey Heyd, senior vice president of Auxiliary 4808, Ansley, and department guard, attended a reception for National President Joan Katkus of Alaska in Jackson at the Ramada Inn Coliseum on Jan. 24.

The next meeting of the post will be Thursday, Feb. 18 at 8 p.m., Carl Salaun, commander, stated.

Literary Exhibit traces Pass artist's 30-year career

RETROSPECTIVE—Two paintings by Phyllis Levy of Pass Christian show the evolution of the artist's style over the past 30 years. An exhibit of her works, "A 30

Through the month of February the Pass Christian Public Library, 111 Hiern Ave., Pass Christian will be showing a thirty-year retrospective of the works of Pass Christian artist Phyllis Williams Levy, formerly of Shreveport and New Orleans, La.

Mrs. Levy's list of instructors in art is impressive: Elliot Twery and James Step at Newcomb College; Alvin Shella of the University of Alabama; Elizabeth Friedenberg (modern materials) at Centenary College in Shreveport, La.; Marie Hull, well-known Mississippi artist, in Jackson; and Dodge Kimbrough of Bay St. Louis, Ms.

She has exhibited in many juried shows of the Louisiana State Museum (old Capitol building) in Baton Rouge, the State Museum in Shreveport, the Beaumont Art Museum and won second place among the Louisiana Artists, Inc. exhibit in Chicago, Ill. at the Prudential Plaza.

She was also on the board of the Louisiana Artists, Inc. of Shreveport.

She has had a two-man show in Shreveport, one-man shows in Long Beach and Pass Christian and is a member of the Louisiana Art Association and Contemporary Group of Shreveport, La., Gulf Coast Art Association and Pass Christian Art Association.

She was invited by La Reveue

Moderne des Arts et de la Vie to submit data entailing her exhibits. Mrs. Levy speaks both French and Spanish.

Cartoonist James Williams of Pass Christian is her brother and Milton Williams, well-known Coast artist is her nephew.

She works in all media oil, acrylic, water color, pastels, ink, cement, guache, encaustic or any medium at hand, such as pebbles, etc.

Her favorite compositions are abstract or highly stylized, of which she says "I like the abstract school of painting because I can express realism in an abstract way. Most people like realistic painting better than the abstract but I feel that you can really express more of your feelings about a subject by concentrating on the relation of shapes and contrasts rather than just painting what it looks like."

USM Drug Awareness Week slated Feb. 8-14

HATTIESBURG—A series of events scheduled Feb. 8 - 14 will focus on substance abuse during Drug Awareness Week at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Sponsored by the Substance Abuse Prevention Program—funded by a recent $100,000 U.S. Department of Energy grant to the office of Dr. Joe Paul, USM dean of student development—the week's activities are designed to make college students aware of the dangers of drug abuse.

Planned events include a presentation by former New Orleans Saint Tony Elliott in Union Rooms A, B and C at 7 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 8. The presentation will be followed by a question-and-answer session and an autograph party featuring Elliott, Golden Eagle football players and members of the USM men's basketball team.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union lobby, a display featuring video tapes and brochures will be set up, and at 4 p.m. on Wednesday a two-mile "Run Against Drugs" will begin in front of the Hub.

Registration will begin for the run at 3 p.m. in front of the Hub and a $5 registration fee will be required for participants. Gift certificates will be awarded to winners in the following age categories: 17 and under, 18-20, 21-23, 24-26, 27-30, 31-40, and 40 and over. All run participants will receive free t-shirts.

Free Cokes and literature will be offered to passers-by from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. all week in front of the Hub, and t-shirts will be available as well.

Clayborn was the 1987 campaign chairman with Bob Breeden, Rosary ble, David Treutel Jr., Kathy ernandez and Lou Hall as co-chairmen.
Mauffray said donations and ledges for the 1987 drive were not complete as yet, but it looks as if the bal of $65,000 may be about $4,000 short.
Benvenutti emphasized the need r Hancock Countians to make a 'air Share' contribution to the local nited Way.
"We really appreciate the contributions made by everyone, yet ere is a need for more participation by local residents," Benvenutti lded.

causes highway crash

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two Florida police officers and two prisoners were involved in a one-vehicle accident late Wednesday.

Mississippi State Tropper Houston Dorr said the two officers from Pensacola were transporting the two prisoners from New Mexico when one jumped the lawmen over the back seat causing the accident.

The accident occurred near the four-mile marker in the east-bound lanes of Interstate 10 in Hancock County.

At the scene of the accident one of the prisoners reportedly tried to steal the vehicle of a motorist who had stopped to offer assistance, Dorr stated.

All four were transported to Hancock Medical Center, three by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service.

The officers' vehicle was on its side after clipping several small pine trees.

Dorr was assisted by Tropper Glenn Grice and Hancock County sheriff's deputies.

At press time the accident was still being investigated with Dorr saying there probably will be some charges filed.

been made public.

Joseph was indicted for the murder of his estranged wife, Diana Joseph, who died Dec. 22 a few hours after her car was pushed through an intersection and into a utility pole on Second Street in Bay St. Louis.

Witnesses at the scene reported the tag number of Joseph's car which had left the scene following the incident.

Joseph surrendered himself to the police department and reported he had been involved in an accident a few hours later.

David Scafide, 30, of 103 Beach Drive, Pass Christian has been indicted as an accessory after the fact to murder in the Joseph case.

$1 dinners and 5-cent Cokes to launch Waveland Centennial

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Waveland's Centennial Year of celebration will kick-off with an old fashioned dinner on Saturday, Feb. 20, noon until 3 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, Coleman Avenue.

The date for the dinner was finalized at a Tuesday meeting of Mayor John Longo and the Centennial committee which was formed last year.

The dinner of red beans, rice, sausage, and salad, to be prepared by the American Legion will cost $1 for adults and .50 for children, cokes going for .05 and draft beer .25.

Lawrence Freeman of Post 77 is to coordinate the preparation of the dinner.

In late January the mayor and aldermen proclaimed 1988 as "Waveland Centennial Year."

A prelude to the celebration was publicly announced when National American Legion Commander John P. (Jake) Comer of Quincy, Mass. was presented a key to the city by Longo on his visit to Waveland in January.

Many of the men in attendance at Tuesday's meeting such as Legion Commander Danny Carter are in the process of growing beards for the many planned events for the year of celebration.

Ladies of the city are in the process of preparing dresses popular during the 1880's.

Among the many events discussed at the meeting for the 100th anniversary celebration for Waveland are a birthday party, block party, street dance, tree planting, time capsule, parade, kids fishing rodeo, pier dedication, and a founder's day family picnic.

Longo said he would like to see some special event held very month until the big celebration in October which would probably be an all-day affair.

The city's business along with civic organizations will be contacted to participate in the Centennial special events.

Some 25 citizens along with Longo and Alderman Louie Smolensky attended Tuesday's meeting.

United Way goal short, officers elected

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Officers for the United Way of Hancock County were re-elected at Tuesday's meeting held at Coast Electric in Bay St. Louis.

Those elected were, Charles B. Benvenuti, president; Ellis Cuevas, vice-president; Hilda Bourg, treasurer; and May Beyer, secretary.

Conrad L. Mauffray is executive director; Martha L. Van Peski, executive secretary; and Rev. Charles Clark serves as chaplain.

Directors for the United Way of Hancock County are, Lonnie Clayborn, Rick Eagan, Clarice Gustin, Michael D. Haas, Sr., Patricia Mauffray Harvill, Bob Hubbard, John Mason and Roger Oge.

Clayborn was the 1987 campaign chairman with Bob Breeden, Rosary Ebble, David Treutel Jr., Kathy Fernandez and Lou Hall as co-chairmen.

Mauffray said donations and pledges for the 1987 drive were not complete as yet, but it looks as if the goal of $65,000 may be about $4,000 short.

Benvenuti emphasized the need for Hancock Countians to make a "Fair Share" contribution to the local United Way.

"We really appreciate the contributions made by everyone, yet there is a need for more participation by local residents," Benvenuti added.

Nationwide a "Fair Share" is considered one hour's pay each month of the year.

Some 18 agencies are supported by the United Way of Hancock County.

Those wishing to send a contribution to the United Way can send it to P.O. Box 142, Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520.
